

Refugee Legal:

Position Description – Solicitor Full-Time (South Australia)

A. Overview of organisation

Refugee Legal is an independent community legal centre specialising in refugee and immigration law, policy and practice. Refugee Legal has been assisting asylum seekers, refugees and disadvantaged migrants in the community and in detention for over 37 years and has substantial casework experience and expertise. Refugee Legal's work involves the provision of key legal assistance to people who could not otherwise obtain it due to financial and other forms of distinct disadvantage often related to their cultural or linguistically diverse backgrounds or experiences of torture or trauma. Refugee Legal also conducts extensive law reform, advocacy and education programs.

B. Position Summary

The solicitor position is based in Adelaide and will support our service expansion to address legal needs in South Australia. While the position is based in Adelaide, the solicitor will be required to travel within South Australia, sometimes on short notice.

The solicitor position combines casework, training/teaching of immigration and refugee law, policy and procedure, in addition to general immigration and refugee advice, policy, law reform and advocacy development, and community education/information. It is anticipated that the position will consist of 75% casework, 5% teaching/training, 15% advice services and 5% policy and other projects. The solicitor will be expected to regularly participate in and supervise Refugee Legal's weekly Monday Evening Advice Service. As the work at Refugee Legal is varied, a significant degree of flexibility is required.

The solicitor to the Executive Director or a designated Senior Lawyer.

C. Duties and Responsibilities

Casework (approx. 75%)

The solicitor will be responsible for managing a substantial caseload of asylum seeker, refugee and migrant clients under the direct supervision of a senior solicitor. Casework will include initial advice, preparation of applications, representation and advocacy at all administrative levels, including the Department of Home Affairs, the Administrative Review Tribunal (ART) and the Immigration Assessment Authority (IAA).

Refugee Legal accepts cases according to our principles of case prioritisation and eligibility requirements, subject to the capacity of the service. The position requires participation in weekly meetings with other staff to jointly decide on client eligibility and to discuss a wide range of other related policies and procedural issues. The range of casework undertaken includes representation of: asylum seekers (including those in detention); refugees; applicants for family stream visas (including spouse, carer, child and orphan relative visas); and other temporary and permanent visas available under migration legislation and visa cancellation.

Teaching/Training (approx. 5%)

Refugee Legal delivers training and education in all aspects of Australia's refugee and immigration program. The successful candidate must have a good working knowledge of refugee and immigration law, practice, policy and procedure. Good public speaking, teaching and research skills are required.

The solicitor will be required to contribute to Refugee Legal's Community Legal Education Program, including the preparation and delivery of community education and public presentations in a variety of community-based fora.

Refugee Legal conducts Continuing Professional Development (CPD) Seminars for registered migration agents. CPDs are run regularly throughout the year in Melbourne and may also be conducted in other states or territories. The solicitor will liaise closely with the Legal Education Coordinator and will be required to research, prepare and present CPD Seminars, which are conducted by Refugee Legal throughout the year, on a variety of immigration or refugee law topics

Advice Services (approx. 15%)

The solicitor will be required to provide telephone and face-to-face immigration advice as required. The solicitor will be expected to give advice through Refugee Legal's telephone advice service. The solicitor may also be expected to be available on nominated Monday nights to participate in and supervise legal advice provided by volunteers and staff at Refugee Legal's Evening Advice Service. In addition, the position requires participation in and supervision of legal advice provided by volunteers and staff at Refugee Legal's Clinics.

Policy and other projects (approx. 5%)

Refugee Legal is strongly committed to assisting disadvantaged migrants, refugees and asylum seekers by actively contributing to the refugee and immigration policy debate in Australia, as well as encouraging and promoting law reform. The solicitor will be asked to participate in other projects related to these activities, which are conducted from time to time at Refugee Legal. Activities may include formulation of policy/law reform positions, undertaking special project work, such as strategic litigation and Medevac, and the preparation of community and sector fact sheets.

Particular areas of interest for Refugee Legal in this area include: Australia's domestic and international human rights obligations in the refugee and immigration law contexts; Australia's policy of mandatory detention of asylum seekers; the impact of immigration and refugee law and policy on particularly vulnerable groups in Australian society (including children, victims of family violence, persons of alleged 'character concern' and students); family reunion and citizenship.
